The family lived at King's Laggan farm for many years before moving to Carsluith. Although King's Laggan has been part of Anwoth and Kirkmabreck parishes at different times in the past, it is likely that Anwoth Church, being much closer to King's Laggan, was the family's favoured church before they moved. This might explain why this soldier was commemorated on both Anwoth Church and Kirkmabreck War Memorials.
